Zoom on Andreas Meyer, CTO

Andreas Meyer graduated from the School of Business and Engineering (HEIG-VD) in Yverdons-les-Bains. He subsequently entered Leclanché SA, a leading company in electrical batteries, where he notably worked on metal-hydride accumulators for the Swatch-Mobile concept car. In 1995, he joins Solaronix, created two years earlier with his twin brother Toby. Andreas is the CTO of the company ever since, where he principally deals with the developments of plasma light engines and solar simulators.
